LEADING MANUFACTURERS COMING ONBOARD

DRIVE STRATEGIC INITIATIVES FROM SINGAPORE

Launched its new Technology Centre and announced that it is investing S$587 million in its future in Singapore over the next few years. This new centre will focus on developing new advanced manufacturing technologies such as artificial intelligence, robotics, fluid dynamics and vision systems.

SUMITOMO CHEMICAL Co., Ltd.

Launched a first-of-its-kind global Internet of Things initiative in Singapore 1) to digitalise its manufacturing plants 2) build a platform to enhance visibility and sophistication to the Group's global supply chain information management.

Implement I4.0 solutions in its Singapore facilities, such as drones for site inspections, data analytics and mechanization to support maintenance activities, and setting up a wireless network that tracks where people and equipment are in the plant real-time.

Opened a S$65 million Global Distribution Center in Singapore, equipped with leading-edge Internet-of-Things (IoT) technology. The center is one of the world's first IoT-enabled high bay Automated Storage and Retrieval System that is built directly on top of the pallet warehouse.

To transform its Fab 12i into a next-gen Smart Factory, UMC will embark on a series of digitalization initiatives, which include establishing 1) a control tower to manage its operations remotely, and 2) a big data platform to collect and analyse manufacturing data from various production processes.

Invested S$12 million to establish a iSmart Factory project to testbed solutions in robotics, automation and smart factory software. The ambition is to yield a 20 to 30% increase in productivity, with the aim of scaling these solutions in Meiban's factories in the region.
